" Lauren Psyk, PhotographerLauren Psyk We've got one mission: to make creating your own website and online shop as simple as possible. We were the first UK-based all-in-one website builder - we launched in 2001 as DoYourOwnSite.co.uk - and since then we've enabled over 30,000 people to make a website: from individuals, crafters, tradespeople and all sorts of small to medium-sized enterprises. In 2000, Simon Kimber set out to build a content management system that would enable his clients to add their own content to the websites he was developing for them. He quickly realised there was an opportunity to do something much greater - something that would put having a website within reach of people who didn't know how to code or couldn't afford expensive agencies - and he developed a platform that allowed anyone with a computer, an internet connection, and a bit of motivation, to make a website. The business - registered as DoYourOwnSite in 2001 - grew organically and in 2005, Simon's wife, Rebecca, joined the company to help support the hundreds of customers who were choosing Simon's platform to make their own website. As the business grew, Rebecca began to oversee more of the business operations, and in 2007 she became CEO. Soon after, the company hired their first employee (with more to come!) and rented their first office. In 2009 the company rebranded as Create.net, and since then the team has grown to 18 people, one occasional dog, Jelly, who thinks she's a human and a tank of tropical fish. Our head office is based in a sustainable development in Brighton, UK - our building is made with local materials such as sweet chestnut timber cladding and East Sussex clay, and we're powered by wind turbines, solar heating panels and collected surface water. To date, over 30,000 people have made websites using Create, which has developed from Simon's original platform into a simple-to-use but powerful website and ecommerce builder. Everything we do is to enable people to get online. It's not easy to make a website, but we've designed our site-builder to make it as simple as possible We believe in doing everything we can to help individuals and small businesses maximise their online presence. We strive to work in a way that is sustainable, ethically responsible and environmentally friendly. We value integrity, honesty, transparency and thoughtfulness. Customer success is at the heart of our business; we are successful when our customers achieve their dreams. A website isn't just useful for getting sales and enquiries online; you can also use it to encourage footfall to a physical location. To do this visually and effectively, you'll need to add a map to your website. Google is the ideal way to do this and offers convenient tools to allow you to do so. If you're building your website on Create, we've already built this functionality into our Content Builder for you. Whether you want to include your location on your contact page, advertise event locations you're attending or for anything else, this guide will walk you through the process of setting up a map on your website. Add a Google Map to Your Website If you're not using Create to build your website, you will need to use the HTML code Google provides and add this to your website. Your website host should be able to provide instructions on how to do so or you will need to contact your developer. Here are the steps you need to find your map HTML code: Go to Google Maps Enter the address of the location you would like to pin in the top-left search bar Click the Share Icon in the left-hand menu Select the Embed a Map tab in the pop-up window Click Copy HTML to add the code you need to your clipboard You will need to add this code to your webpage using your website host's instructions or email the code to your developer. Add a Google Map to Your Create Website If you've built your website with Create, there's no need to add any additional code to your site manually; there are already Content Blocks available to make this incredibly easy for you to do. To add a Google Map to your Create website, you can follow these steps: Log into your Create account Click Content in the top menu Click Edit This Page (the pencil icon) next to the page you are going to add the map to Click the +Add Block button In the Block Filter menu, click the Map filter Select one of the Map Block When you hover over the map you will see the Map Settings Enter the location you wish the map to show Click Done then and then save your changes Add a Google Map Featuring Multiple Pins to Your Website Want to add a map to your website but need to feature more than one pinned location? Whether that's your store locations, events you regularly attend, other businesses you want to promote in your network or more, it's possible to do so, the process is just slightly different: Go to Google Maps Create a map with multiple pinned locations Make sure your map is public on Google Maps. You can do this by clicking Share beneath the map name Under Who has access, click Change, turn on the setting for Public on the web and Save Next, click the menu icon and click on the link Embed on my site The code will then pop up in a new window. You will need to add this code to your webpage using your website host's instructions or email the code to your developer. If you're on Create, simply paste the code into an HTML fragment and then place this on your chosen page You will now have a map with more than one location on your website.
