Subtest 2: Vocabulary, Academic Language and Background Knowledge; Comprehension. Subtest 3: Planning, Organization, and Managing Reading Instruction Based on Ongoing Assessment. Subtests 1 and 2: 35 multiple-choice and 2 constructed response questions per subtest; Subtest 3: 1 hour and 30 minutes 220 per subtest (scaled score) The Reading Instruction Competence Assessment (RICA) is designed to ensure that candidates for the California Multiple Subjects Teaching Credential and Education Specialist Instruction Credential possess the knowledge and skills necessary to provide effective reading instruction. The written exam is comprised of 3 subtests. Subtest 1 covers the domains Word Analysis and Fluency. Subtest 2 covers Vocabulary, Academic Language, and Background Knowledge, as well as Comprehension. Subtest 3 covers just one domain: Planning, Organizing, and Managing Reading Instruction Based on Ongoing Assessment. The RICA Written exam is currently available in computer-based and online-proctored format. The computer-based exam must be taken in a testing center. The online-proctored exam can be taken remotely. Instead of completing the written exam, candidates may choose to take the RICA Video Performance Assessment. This allows them to be evaluated based on classroom performance and involves them creating and submitting videos of themselves teaching reading. 2025 RICA Testing Costs* Below is an overview of the 2025 RICA testing fees. Computer-based testing is administered at a testing center while online-proctored testing is delivered remotely under the supervision of an online proctor. While it might initially seem an advantage to take the test from your home or workplace rather than traveling to a testing center, there are several factors to consider. When you register for computer-based testing, you may choose to take the subtests at separate times or in a single session. With online-proctored testing, the subtests are administered as three independent sections which you must register for separately. Be aware that with computer-based testing, you may take restroom breaks, which are considered as part of your testing time. With online-proctored testing, however, you cannot take any breaks. Another key difference is how you get your results. If you take the computer-based test, you will get a receipt of completion at the end of your test then will receive your final test results within 4 weeks. With online-proctoring, you won't receive a receipt of completion when your test ends. While results are generally available within 3 weeks of testing, the testing service notes that score reports may be delayed for up to 2 weeks, meaning that the turnaround will not necessarily be quicker than if you took the test at a testing center. Before you register for your exam, read our free RICA Study Guide to learn more about the content. We also recommend timing yourself on a RICA Practice Test to determine your pace for each subtest. This will help you decide which testing scenario is right for you. Below is a list of RICA testing center locations in California, Oregon and Nevada. Note that locations may change and that not all testing sites are available for all exams and dates. IMPORTANT: Please do NOT go to a testing center until you have registered for the exam and scheduled your appointment.
